My co-authors and I are pleased to respond to referee comments on our article entitled

The Energy and Exergy of Light
With Application to Societal Exergy Analysis

We thank the reviewers for their insightful comments and criticisms. In response, we provide point-by-point reactions to each comment. Nearly all comments spurred us to make improvements to the article. For the few comments which did not result in changes, we carefully explained why no modifications were made.

We provide both a “clean” copy and a “track changes” copy for your convenience. (The “track changes” version has been uploaded as a supplementary file.) Note, too, that we have established a data repository at the University of Leeds whose DOI is already minted. The site will go “live” when we supply the University of Leeds with the DOI for the paper.

Thank you for the opportunity to respond to the referee comments. If you have any questions, please get in touch.

Yours sincerely,

Matthew Kuperus Heun
